Youngsters Put The Glades On Map At Lions Convention

Local Lions roar around home about what they do and they do considerable—but it took the kids to go to the Big City, Miami, and "take the day" with their song and personality.

Recently a home talent, directed by Lioness Marian Najarian, entertained local audience with very favorable financial results; so, the Lions arranged to carry the High School Band and the Glee Club to the State Convention of the Lions.

The Glee Club of 33 members serenaded the various hotels and celebrities of the convention on Sunday night, including the President of International Lions.

The band paraded with 22 other bands of South Florida in the big parade and was well applauded along the line of march.

The group that did the most effective advertising for the Glades, and Belier, is the trio. They were scheduled to make two appearances at special functions, but were conscripted for several additional appearances at official functions, and went over with a bang.

The attractiveness and appealing songs of the trio drew special attention to the Glee Club and Band, all to the pride and enjoyment of all South Florida.

Miss Rita Aboud's photogenic rendition of a majorette's functions rated a special picture in the Miami papers.

Among local Lions attending the Convention were Mrs. Ruth Timmons, Miss Marian Najarian, President and Mrs. Whitlock, Mr. and Mrs. Trouble Holter, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Asper, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Ingram, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wedgworth, Vernie Beck, Nelson Morris, and Tommy Parker.

STATE ASSEMBLY REPORT IS GIVEN Belle Rebekah Lodge held their regular meeting Tuesday night at the Benevolent Hall, with Mrs. Thelma Davidson, noble grand, presiding.

Proceeding the meeting the group enjoyed a covered dish luncheon.

Miss Frieda Stiff of Gardena, Lodge, West Palm Beach, and Miss Kathleen Rogers of the local lodge gave reports on the Rebekah State Assembly which was held in Miami May 15, 16 and 17.

The members of the lodge will hold a rummage sale, Saturday, May 23, at Pruitt's Jewelry Store on Ave. A.

Local Lions Roar Around Home About What They Do

Guests from Gardena Lodge were past district deputy, Miss Frieda Stiff, and her mother, Mrs. Lily Stiff.

Correction in last week's paper, Kathleen Rogers was Color Bearer of Rebekah Lodge.

ELKS AND WIVES ENJOY BARBECUED CHICKEN AND RIBS

There's no place that exceeds the Glades in quality of barbecued chicken, beef or pork.

Saturday night the quantity was limited only by the capacity of each guest, and there were more guests than at any "home-folk" cook held recently.

Fresh corn-on-the-cob, delicious baked beans, a tasty salad were there for bedding and packing, with half-chickens and ribs.

The old adage "If you'll feed them they will come" was proven Saturday night, for the Elks Lodge Monday night for the repeat.

Thirteen members of the Safety Patrol, accompanied by Ed Lively and H. A. Culetto, also two high school boys, Bob John Glisson and Burl Miller, left Saturday at 8:15 am for Fish-eating Creek.

They left by truck which was loaded down with boys, fishing poles, rations and what have you.

The boys really had a wonderful time swimming, exploring and fishing. They also had their fill of hot dogs and cold drinks, arriving back in Belle Glade about 7 pm, one of the boys was asked if he wanted any dinner he replied, "Oh no, I'm so full I could just pop."

Patrol Boys were Terry Kirkham, Neal Livingston, Bill Van Landingham, Leonard Higby, Eddie Lively, Jr., Harley Hollingsworth, Mickey Acree, Bill Carlson, Larry Berryhill, Robert Hubner, David Binkley, Billy Schoenfeld and Billy Puckett.

Celery And Corn Revive In Price To Raise Hopes

Activity Indicated In This Area Until Middle Of June

With an average price of $3.00 to $3.25 for corn and the same and a bit higher for celery for the past week, and hopes of its continuing until all supplies are over, high hopes are buzzing around the Glades.

Advised operators think that the prices may well hold on until the Glades crop is all harvested, and that corn will hold for a two week period yet.

Generally, to date, it appears that some 10% increase in total packages around the Lake will have been shipped by the end of the season, with a "take" in dollars of approximately 10% less than last year's total.

Local Guard Unit Receives High Efficiency Rating

Officers of Battalion level have only words of praise for the performance of the local post three weeks. Lt. Col. O. W. Hartwell, Battalion Commander, spoke very highly of the local Glades company here Monday at the regular weekly drill. He stated that "The men in the unit here are doing a fine job on the range and in armory training as a whole."

Major Leo A. Smith, Assistant Armory Instructor, was present with his assistant, SFC. Smith, to observe training.

Saturday, May 16th, at 8:00 am, Company E, left Belle Glade for Pahokee, where they held a practice parade in preparation for the Armed Forces Day parade held in West Palm Beach Saturday night. The parade consisted of all National Guard Units of the 2nd Battalion, which included besides the Glades Unit, companies from West Palm Beach, Ft. Lauderdale, and Ft. Pierce. The parade began at 7:00 pm and was routed down Clematis Street, ending on Flagler Drive. The men were given liberty until one o'clock, following the parade, was witnessed by one of the largest crowds ever to observe an Armed Forces Day event in Palm Beach County.

Firing on the rifle range of individual weapons, for record, was completed Sunday, May 17th. Forty-five men of Company E qualified with their rifles. (Continued on Page 4)

Rotarians Hear Neilson Talk On A Bottle Of Milk

"Since 1920 milk production in Florida has doubled each ten year period" Alf Neilson told Rotarians Friday, "and during the last decade ending in '50 it more than doubled. The statistics are that the current period will greatly exceed the past one in gain."

"We are now producing in this state as much milk as we use in the fluid state and must look to manufacturing of milk products to take up the slack between consumption and production."

In tracing the history of "A Bottle of Milk" in the area Mr. Neilson told of his family's arrival at White City in '33, "because Little Alfred was puny needed the strength of climate." "We went into the woods to the west and brought home two heifers and the two quarts of milk per day from the two kept Little Alfred going. I've been drinking at least a quart of milk per day since that time."

In the early twenties the only way a resident of Palm Beach County could get certified milk was on a doctor's prescription, because we had the only (Continued on page 2)

The local PTA is feeling sheepish today. Some they complained the youngsters weren't learning enough. Said they couldn't even spell. So the kids challenged them to a spelling bee.

"I was captain of the PTA's," "Doc" Brown told me. "Both teams made the first spell just fine. But on the second round, Deputy Taylor went down on his hands and knees and said, 'I'm sorry, but my legs are too short to stand on.'"

When his boy chip, who happened to be next as the school team, rattled it right off, "I'm back in it was murder!" he howled. "Doc" says that the

MILLION SPENT BY MILITARY SERVICES FOR GLADES CROPS

"If it isn't the best, they're not interested," said a local shipper when asked what type of vegetables the Army buys through its local procurement officer, and continued "They're interested in quality and at times they find it desirable to pay premium prices for better quality in the instances where that procedure" would create food savings."

Capt. I. B. Garner, U. S. Army Quartermaster Corps, in charge of the Field Buying office at Belle Glade, assisted by two civilian purchasing agents, Mr. L. D. Peppard and Mrs. M. S. Hill, purchases approximately 25 to 30 cars of Glades produce weekly over a period of 25 weeks for the Army, Navy, and Air Corps under the supervision of the parent Market Center located at Columbia, S. C.

With a season total of 650 carloads and use of Glades vegetables — always top quality — the Army's purchases of vegetables in the Glades near the million-dollar mark annually.

Nearing the end of this season of operation in the Glades, the local office has become recognized as a substantial outlet for approximately 20 "vendors," all of whom must have a registered number with the P.A.C.A. All vegetables are carefully inspected before shipment from here and again inspected upon arrival at the destination. All product produced must be inspected by purchasing agents in the field or in the packing houses before being assembled for shipment in mixed (or straight) cars to military installations all over the South and again after the car is loaded. Many small carloads are shipped to points east of the Mississippi, on installations from the Headquarters Market Center in Chicago, as well as for export to our military installations overseas through the New York Port of Embarkation.

Questioning among local shippers, "vendors" in Army vegetable, discloses that a very friendly relation exists between the Army's representatives and the sellers. There is extreme care exercised in selecting produce, with emphasis on quality rather than price, and when specifications are complied with.

CROSS COUNTRY CHATTER

with Mac White

Had sort of a rugged week. A long haul from Tampa to Naples to Miami to Key West on motor trouble on route. Then, when I got back to Jacksonville, Mary, my wife, had a patch over her eyebrow and looked sort of pale.

"It was like this Mac," she told me. "I took the kids down to Daytona on Sunday. At Burnett, our right front tire burst. When I slammed on the brakes, they yelled. My head hit the rear-view mirror. Don't be worried — the kids are all right. So am I."

I looked her over carefully and saw the sweat of my neck.

"When I said 'Looks like the doctor fixed you up all right, honey,' it happened. I got a brown stain over my face."

Mary chuckled. "Three minutes after it happened," she said, "a big trailer truck pulled onto the shoulder. Who do you think was at the helm? MacDowell, from Orlando. He patched up my face, quieted the kids down, changed the tire and took us into Daytona."

"I grinned. 'Good old Mac,' I said. 'He knows his first aid.' And I know this," Mary said. "Now I know exactly what you mean when you say Florida truck drivers are courteous, dependable and helpful. I'm right proud of your industry and its men, Mac."

"And don't forget," I said, my chest expanding a little, "the industry is paying its way. During 1952 the owners of Florida's 200,000 trucks paid almost $7,000,000 in registration fees and for license tags. That could improve a lot of public roads where we'd have less blowouts — if only it was used for that purpose."

"Stow the crutney," Mary said. "The coffee's hot."
